Yanzi wins 2nd prize in IPSO Challenge 2014

IPSO CHALLENGE is a global competition for the most innovative designs for smart objects in the Internet of Things. The competition is hosted by the IPSO Alliance. Winners were announced June 25 at Sensors Expo in Chicago, USA, at an awards ceremony sponsored by Google.

"We are excited that Yanzi won the Second Prize of USD $5,000. Their product shows how innovation is coming to the Internet of Things and how simple it can be to install smart home systems by using the Internet Protocol", said Geoff Mulligan Chairman of the IPSO Alliance.

"Yanzi is all about connecting millions of users to billions of things in an easy way and we are happy and truly honored that the IPSO judges share our vision. This award goes to the amazing engineering team at Yanzi but the real winners are the users that will benefit from easy to use connected devices," says Niclas Sahlgren, Partner at Yanzi.
